

PROMETRIUM 200 MG
Vaginal Tablets

Progesterone is used to maintain the lining of the uterus and support a pregnancy. It is a naturally-produced hormone the body produces after ovulation. (During your cycle, this medication is needed to support the pregnancy.) This medication will continue until your pregnancy test and then, if pregnant, you will be tapered off during the first trimester through monitoring of progesterone levels.

Instruction:

- Insert one tablet high into the vagina - one in the morning, one in mid-afternoon, and one before going to bed.
- Lay down for 15 minutes after each insertion to assure good absorption of the medication.

Side effects may include:

- Crampy feeling
- Breast tenderness
- Drowsiness or dizziness
- Depression

Report any of the following symptoms to the office:

- Abnormal bleeding
- Yellow eyes or skin
- Itchy rash
- Severe depression
- Pain or swelling of the leg
- Chest pain
- Vision problems
- Breathing problems
